ECCO D9R Featured in Aspera Groundbreaking Ceremony

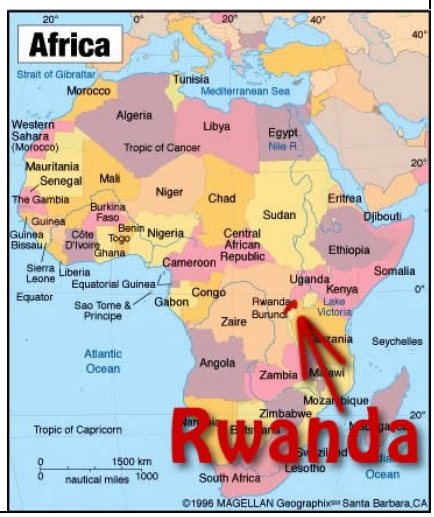
By Jeff Hightower—Last May, Cardon Development broke ground on a 76 acre site name Aspera in the Phoenix suburb of Glendale. Speakers at the ceremony included Governor Jan Brewer and retired Arizona Cardinals QB Kurt Warner. As a new community, Aspera will bring a mix of professional services, high-paying jobs, housing options, and retail uses that will serve and support the area. One of the projects, which is backed by Kurt Warner's First Things First Foundation, is a group home for developmentally disabled young adults. The uses within Aspera will be compatible with the existing church and school uses, residential developments, and surrounding properties as well. ECCO was proud to work with long time customer Gunsight to participate in the ceremonial groundbreaking as well as the actual site development. We had one D9 dozer and two 631 scrapers on site.

Please Welcome Hassan Issa Natawuruhunga to the ECCO Team!

Issa is the newest member of the North Dakota team. His duties include washing equipment, parts running, assisting mechanics, and anything else Nelson needs!

In his own words: I was born in a small village, Gisenyi in Rwanda. I have been in the United States of America since October 2012. I started riding a bicycle when I was five years old and now I can drive big machines! I am married and have a three year old daughter. My wife and daughter are still in Africa. With an African background in the field of mechanics, I hope to learn and contribute more to ECCO equipment.



Another Happy Customer: Salt Lake Excavating

By Kevin Larkin, Salt Lake Excavating— ECCO Equipment Co. has been a critical partner on many of our jobs. They have come through for us on every occasion. I have been impressed by their flexibility in meeting all of our needs, including supplying the equipment we need when we need it, as well as keeping it running while it's on the job. With fair pricing and the ability to meet all of our needs, we couldn't be happier with them as one of our key equipment suppliers.

Congratulations to the Utah branch for doing the hard work necessary to deserve the above praises.

Help Out at the Waterway Cleanup Day!

California has designated September 20, 2014, as Coastal Clean-up Day. ECCO is sponsoring the effort in southern California and we would like all ECCO employees and their families in the area to consider volunteering their time to help clean up their local waterways. Check the websites below for a clean-up site near you. In northern California, check out The Great Sierra River Cleanup. In Riverside, the cleanup is on Oct 4 (contact Dave Novak to signup). In Las Vegas, there is The Las Vegas Wash Green-up, also on Oct 4. Other ECCO regions are encouraged to find a local place you can help out. If there's not one in your area, plan one! Part of ECCO's mission is to be good neighbors in our communities. There's a waterway somewhere near you that needs some TLC.

Bee Invasion!

Anyone who works around parked equipment knows that bees love to nest deep inside scrapers and excavators. The only option is to call an exterminator. Our Phoenix branch got to witness an actual swarm this summer as a colony of bees was looking for its next home and paused in the yard.
